The Warren County Child Advocacy Center has announced NBC television personality Chris Hansen will be the keynote speaker at their annual Blue Ribbon Nite Gala on

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 10, 2010 at the Manor House in Mason

Hansen is the well-known undercover investigator for NBC's Dateline which has featured child sex-predator investigations on many of their shows.

The event is the annual fundraiser for the Center which features a semi-formal dinner and a silent auction. There is also a live auction that will feature many premium items including two tickets to the 2010 Ohio State – Michigan football game.

The Child Advocacy Center is a child-focused, facility based program which brings together Child Protection, and Medical and Victim professionals with law enforcement and prosecutors to make joint decisions about the investigation, treatment, management and prosecution of child abuse cases.

Sheriff Larry Sims, a former child and sexual abuse investigator states, "The Child Advocacy Center is one of the most important law enforcement tools we have in Warren County. Abused children have already been through enough, the Center exists for the protection of the child and to lessen the impact of the criminal prosecution process."
